PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release:

“NJCC Graduates are Certified, Confident & Ready for Success.”

Millville, April 8, 2011:

On Friday, April 8, 2011, New Jersey Career Center in Millville graduated six students boasting new skills, new industry certifications and a newfound confidence in their marketability for today’s challenging job markets. Graduates completed programs and achieved nationally recognized certifications in fields of Office Administration, Information Technology and Medical Office Administration.

“I am really glad I chose to come to New Jersey Career Center. The support from the instructors and the class flexibility really enabled me to succeed,” stated Liz Goff, who graduated Friday from the Medical Office Administration program. Other graduates identified the ability to learn at their own pace as one of the key factors that made it possible for them achieve their educational goals. In fact, this aspect of the program facilitated early graduation for Francisco Canas Lopez, a very focused and determined student who also achieved both his CompTIA A+ and Network+ certifications sooner than expected. New Jersey Career Center’s Spring Term graduates included Liz Goff, Katherine Wharton, James Harvey McCubbin, Victor Hannah, Francisco Canas Lopez and Edward Soto.

Other students still pursuing their graduation from New Jersey Career Center were awarded Certificates of Completion for individual courses successfully completed during the term. Students were also recognized for achieving national industry certifications. This term, New Jersey Career Center students achieved a 99% certification rate on the nationally recognized industry exams from CompTIA, Microsoft and the National Healthcareer Association with many of the students achieving multiple industry certifications.

New Jersey Career Center is a private vocational school dedicated to providing student-centered training focused on attaining the knowledge and skills necessary to achieve industry certifications enabling individuals to reach their educational and career goals at their own pace, with a flexible schedule in a professional blended learning environment. Located at 1601 N 2nd Street, New Jersey Career Center has been providing quality education and training to the Southern New Jersey community since 2002.
